TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN

I have been ~~the~~ personally responsible for the recovery of Ms Hannah Miles since February 2016. Over the past month, I am pleased to report that Ms Miles has improved in her medical condition. Ms Miles had a recent complete medical examination and showed mostly positive results.

However, there have been reported lapses of neurological activities that we fear might render her unstable. We will keep her under observation until we are certain her neurological activities are stable and normal.

We apologize for any inconvenience caused.

Thank you

Fatal Crash involving two teens along CTE

The extent of wreckage could be seen in full detail the next morning.

Reported by Poon Jian Hui

Witnesses say that the vehicle could be seen swerving along the expressway at approximately 4 in the morning. The cause of the accident is believed to be due to drink driving.

A on their way back from a birthday celebration at the popular club - Zouk, Hannah Miles and her sister, Melissa Miles, was involved in a devastating car crash with 2 other vehicles. What was supposed to be a joyous occasion turned fatal.

Her sister was rushed to a local hospital, but could not be saved.

No charges had been filed against Hannah in connection with the fatal accident as of Saturday, Singapore police Lt. David Ong confirmed to The Straits Times. Investigators were continuing to reconstruct the crash scene and are still interviewing witnesses. Hannah, meanwhile, has been cooperative with investigators, Lt. David Ong said.

A blood test to determine the presence of drugs or alcohol was administered to Hannah after the crash, which is standard procedure in fatal crashes. Those results could take up to several weeks, Lt. David Ong said.

Hannah, who was driving with a conditional license Saturday, was convicted of operating under the influence in 2013, according to records cited by the Straits Times. She was also arrested in nearby Holland on Aug. 13 and later charged with operating under the influence with a prior OUI conviction and operating with a license, the Sun Journal reports.

Hannah's license was suspended after last month's arrest, according to state records cited by the newspaper. The suspension was stayed on Sept. 11 and Hannah is due to appear for a hearing Thursday on the matter. In 2013, Hannah was convicted of OUI after she hit a parked car outside her home in Bukit Timah. Her blood-alcohol level at the time was 0.27 percent and no injuries were reported.

Another witness at the scene spotted Hannah running through the parking lot before [redacted] a fence along a highway exit ramp. Emergency workers soon arrived and tried unsuccessfully [redacted] in the crumpled car. No visible skid marks were found at the scene.
